Domestic Violence

September 16th, 9:00 AM - 12:00 PM, presented by Ashley Beaudry
$49 includes refreshments, training manual and 3.0 CEUs

Domestic violence is a pattern of abusive behaviors and faulty belief systems that affects marriages, families, children, and the environment on a daily basis. This seminar will focus on being able to identify red flags and symptoms of domestic violence in counseling, co-occurrences of domestic violence, the impact of domestic violence on the environment, and treatment for victims and perpetrators.

Course Outline

- What is domestic violence? Warning signs and red flags
- Perspectives from the victims and perpetrators
- Treatment for victims and perpetrators
- Co-occurrences to be aware of while in treatment
- Resources

About the presenter:

Ashley Beaudry, MAC, LPC, is a Licensed Professional Counselor who received her undergraduate degree in psychology from Texas Christian University and her graduate degree in Counseling from Dallas Baptist University. Ashley completed her graduate training at the Women's Haven of Tarrant County and at the Salvation Army. She has experience with victim assessments, substance abuse and mental illnesses, anger management training, and domestic violence awareness.

Ethics

September 30th, 9:00 AM - 4:00 PM, presented by Kim Rhodes & Terry Fox
$79 includes refreshments, training manual and 6.0 CEUs

Sometimes issues come up within the career of counseling that can be confusing and hard to understand in terms of ethics. This seminar will give you an opportunity to refresh your memory on ethics while at the same time offering new views and someone to talk to with real answers. Terry Fox, an attorney out of Chicago, will be present during a portion of the seminar to clarify some ethical issues as well as answer questions you may have. Topics covered include: ethical decisions, self-assessment, the ACA consumer complaint process, and the most common therapist lawsuit elements.

Course Outline

- On Being Ethical - A Definition
- Ethical Obligations
- Making Ethical Decisions - A Step-by-Step Process
- Self-Assessment - How are you doing as a therapist?
- Enforcing Ethical Conduct
- Dealing with Ethical Misconduct
- ACA Consumer Complaint Process
- When Things Don't Go Well
- Psychology and the Law
- Most Common Therapist Lawsuit - Some Facts
- New Mental Health Laws - How Do They Affect Me?
- Conclusion

About the presenter:

Kim Rhodes, MS, LCPC, is a 1998 graduate of National-Louis University and holds a Master of Science Degree in Counseling. After completing her master's level internship at Family Counseling Service, Kim was hired as a full-time therapist and has been with the agency ever since. She has had extensive experience working in programs with clients who were court-ordered for domestic violence treatment, working with children doing play and art therapy, and providing couples and group therapy to families. Kim is currently the Manager of Professional Counseling Services for FCS, which includes supervising interns and other therapists.

About the presenter:

Carol Pranger, LCPC and a Nationally Certified School Psychologist, has over 20 years experience working with adolescents, adults, families, and couples in schools and therapeutic settings. She currently has a private practice, Pathways to Clarity, based in Batavia, IL, working with those who struggle with anxiety, depression, grief, relational problems and life adjustments. Carol's approach to counseling is that everyone has the power to bring to fruition the life that was meant to be. She believes it is within every one of us to let go of our fears, embrace the uncertainties of the future, seek wisdom, and live as we were meant to live.

About the presenters:

Husband & wife team Ofc. Mike Wasilewski, MSW and Althea Olson, LCSW have been coaching law enforcement officers on life skills outside the job since they began professionally writing in 2007. Mike has been a police officer with a large suburban police department outside of Chicago since 1996 and received his Masters of Social Work from Aurora University in 2003. Althea also graduated with her Masters in Social Work from Aurora University in 1996 and is in private practice in Joliet & Naperville.

Transitioning Teens to Adulthood

October 7th, 9:00 AM - 12:00 PM, presented by Carol Pranger
$49 includes refreshments, training manual and 3.0 CEUs

Moving teens out of adolescence and into adulthood can be a daunting task. This seminar will focus on the developmental tasks that must be resolved in order for a successful launch. We will learn techniques to address these tasks, how to manage atypical challenges, the roles of parents, families and community, and the needed socio-emotional functioning of both teens and parents to ensure an empowering and successful transition.

Course Outline

- Developmental challenges
- Atypical challenges
- Behaviors and emotions required
- Role of parents/family
- Role of school/peers
- Special circumstances

Treating Cops: What the client wants you to know

October 14th, 9:00 AM - 12:00 PM, presented by Althea Olson & Mike Wasilewski
$49 includes refreshments, training manual and 3.0 CEUs

Counseling law enforcement officers can be uniquely challenging for the therapist. Ironically, the very skills that enable police officers to survive street encounters often wreak havoc at home, in their personal lives, and within the political structure of their agencies. They can also be obstacles standing in the way of successful therapy.

In this course, you will be introduced to the mindset and world of the cop, how they can impact the officer's emotional and relational well-being, and common obstacles you may encounter when treating a police officer. You will also begin to develop a "cop-friendly" approach to therapy which is designed to build rapport and respect between the therapist and the police client.

Course Outline

- Understanding the warrior mindset
- How the world is viewed by a cop
- Issues cops present in therapy
- Speaking cop language
- How to build rapport and keep the client engaged
- Fatal mistakes in therapy with a cop.
